

Barts and The London Cardiovascular Biomedical Research Unit

PARA-SVT Research Study

We are currently running a study with London Ambulance Service (LAS) and St Bartholomew's Hospital looking into the treatment and discharge of patients with fast heart rhythms by paramedics.

Richard Schilling, Professor of Cardiology and Electrophysiology, Mark Whitbread, London Ambulance Service Clinical Practice Manager, Sotiris Antoniou, Principal Pharmacist - Cardiac and Respiratory Medicine & Lead Pharmacist for NELC&SN and Victoria Baker, Arrhythmia Research Nurse held a Training day for paramedics at the Menzies Prince Regent Hotel in Woodford Bridge, Essex.

PARA SVT TRAINING DAY

We ran our first training day on 9th October and 30 paramedics attended for training on taking part in the trial and treating SVT.

This study is being funded by the British Heart Foundation and the next training day is scheduled for February 2011.